Dear Mr. Allen,

Several years ago our VPI system had a unique blend of resins that was starting to become unmanageable in terms of appearance and viscosity. Flow was inconsistent and we noticed solids in suspension with the liquid. We added a filter to the process and extended our pressure cycle to ensure complete resin penetration. Our distributor introduced us to Star Technology in early 2015. Your technical people evaluated our resin and came up with a custom formulation that could be added to the existing resin stock. Since then we have easily kept our tank viscosity under control and have achieved consistently excellent results in processing motors through our VPI system.

We have been extremely satisfied with the level of product quality and technical service since converting to Star Technology's VPI resin program and would highly recommend them to any shop facing a similar challenge.
